The Challenge

Attractive paving solution required to complement a unique hotel.

Since 1989 Harvey's Point has been welcoming guests from around the world. The hotel reflects the owners' native land with a luxurious Swiss chalet feel. To fit the brief it was of utmost importance for Tobermore to create a design that complemented the hotels Swiss roots.

As a market leader, Harvey's Point are aware of how important first impressions are when choosing a wedding venue and with this in mind sought to improve the entrance area to the hotel. They wanted to create a welcoming extended entrance for their wedding guests, who could use the space to have drinks outside and for photo opportunities. Additionally, they wanted the area to look like a garden as it could be viewed directly from the inside of the ballroom.

In terms of design, they required a more decorative and colourful landscape, moving away from traditional concrete and tarmac.

The Solution

Tobermore provided the perfect solution in the form of block paving product, Tegula Heather, with parking areas clearly defined by lines of Sienna Sandstone Setts.

The Construction Manager at Harvey's Point, James Begley, chose Tobermore based on a personal recommendation and also due to their products appropriately fitting the brief.

James said: "Buying from Tobermore was a pleasure, dealing with professionals, who know their products. Every aspect of dealing with Tobermore was a pleasure. Nothing is a problem to them. I would definitely deal with them again."

As a 365 days of the year business, it was of upmost importance that the job would be finished within the set timeframe given. James added; 'The delivery from Tobermore was on time and as scheduled. This allowed for the project to go ahead without any delays, the renovation was ready for the high season.'

Buying from Tobermore was a pleasure, dealing with professionals, who know their products. Nothing is a problem to them. I would definitely deal with them again.
