The Challenge

Martello Park in Pembroke, South Wales, is one of the latest developments crafted by Persimmon Homes. The housebuilder faced challenges with this project in sourcing a housebuilding product that would blend with the traditional surroundings and vintage charm of Pembroke.

The Solution

Tobermore's Welsh sales team was certain that the rustic finish of Country Stone Walling was the answer to Persimmon Homes' hopes.

Country Stone Walling features a naturally weathered stone appearance, and the cost and ease of installation make it ideal for creating homes with style and character.

Following a presentation from Tobermore on the technical capabilities and aesthetic qualities of Country Stone Walling, Country Stone Walling in the mellow, blended tones of Bracken was specified, and Tobermore continued to provide support throughout the development of the project.

We were really impressed with the range and the colours available. We felt it was the perfect solution in blending the homes with the local area. Availability of stock was also a big issue as we had to ensure continuity on site to meet our requirements and this is something that Tobermore guaranteed.
